Substation and Transmission consents RC07150/11 – RC07150/13

The reasons for my opposition are

• Environment

The disturbance and destruction of this pristine wilderness are by earth works & flooding and construction of transmission lines, creating the loss of the habitat for the blue duck, long fin eel, long tail bat, western weka, kereru, kakariki and most importantly the great spotted kiwi.

• To prevent coastal erosion from the loss of protective silt being held back by the dam

• Heritage values

The mokihinui is the 7th most historical in New Zealand having significant cultural importance

• Recreational

The mokihinui is one of the few multi day kayaking experience available in the South Island, as a class 3-4 river it is accessible to a wider community of kayakers and rafters

• The mokihinui also has significance to mountain bikers, hunters, trappers, fishing, these pristine outdoor experiences stand to be destroyed by the creation of a 85-85m dam drowning 330 hectares of native NZ bush and river
